Thank you for considering a donation of your equine to the Runnin WJ Ranch Therapeutic Riding Center. It is the policy of RWJR to accept donations of equines from their owners for the purpose of our Therapeutic Riding Program. Equines accepted into RWJR program must be mentally and physically healthy and sound, and they must be able to maintain a moderate work schedule. RWJR is not a sanctuary for retired equines, nor a rescue organization, but rather a special place where a special category of equine comes to fill a special need. Please review our requirements as stated below, and let us know if you have any more questions.

Runnin WJ Ranch (RWJR) accepts donations of equines into our program after passing an evaluation and trial period at the RWJR facilities.

RWJR requires a visit by at least 2 staff, preferably at the equine's present location, for the purpose of an initial evaluation. Upon the evaluators' recommendation, RWJR will accept the equine for a 30-90 day trial period, depending on what the staff feels is warranted as long as the below conditions are met. If at all possible, the owner will transport the equine to our facility. If, after the designated time period, the equine is not considered appropriate for RWJR program, the owner will pick up the equine. Acceptance of the equine for a trial period does not obligate RWJR to accept the equine into its program.

RWJR requests:

- Owner must demonstrate or have someone else demonstrate how the equine moves under saddle at a walk, trot and canter at the initial evaluation.
- Equine should be recently trimmed/shod and have a negative coggins test within the last 12 months before the equine(s) is allowed at the RWJR facilities.
- Equine must be able to load and travel properly in a horse trailer.
- Copy of the equine's previous year's veterinary records (including vaccinations, teeth floating, and any other visits from the vet) as well as be current on all shots.
- Owner to pay for any major medical costs related to their equine during the trial period.

- Equine must pass the initial evaluation, as well as subsequent test of suitability. In the event that the equine is not accepted or does not work in our program, the equine must be returned to the owner.

According to the RWJR Board of Directors and RWJR veterinarian, RWJR guidelines, we cannot accept equines:

- with EIA or equines that are blind in one eye
- with ERU, EPM, Laminitis, and neurological conditions.

RWJR may refuse a donation for any reason at any time.
